

TACKLING CHILD SEXUAL EXPLOITATION (CSE) IN THE HOTEL TRADE

Activity: Is it, or isn't it?

Aims and Objectives: To help participants of the awareness/training to recognise the signs of CSE on their premises. Combine this activity with the 'Checklist and Indicators' document to help them put the 'signs' into the context of a scenario in their workplace.

Duration: 20 minutes (Approx.)

Materials:

- Set of red cards with YES.
- Set of green cards with NO.
- Copies of the case study (without answers) (Page 3 of this Document).

What to do...

1. Gather a small group of less than 8 participants. For larger groups divide them into teams.
2. Read out the case study (below/overleaf) pausing after each section to ask participants to hold up a YES or NO card to the response 'is it / isn't it CSE?'
3. Discuss that decision with the individuals/groups.
4. Repeat the process with section 2-4.
5. At the end of the exercise, discuss indicators of CSE or Trafficking.

Activity: Is it, or isn't it?

Script / Discussion Points

1. You have received a last-minute booking for one night. The man booking the room says that they are guests at a wedding and need the room to change and stay the night. He is keen to pay by cash.

Mid-evening, 3 men of various ages, between 20 and 50, and 2 teenage girls, arrive at the hotel to take up the booking. They have a number of packages with them wrapped in wedding gift paper. As the evening progresses, other friends of the guests seem to come and go. There is a lot of noise – music, laughing coming from the room and people seem to be drunk. There is a 'do not disturb' notice on the door.

[ASK] Is it, or isn't it?

[Indicators include, discuss]

- a. The guest insists on paying in cash
 - b. Last minute booking
 - c. Frequent visitors who are in and out at irregular hours
 - d. Young person checking in with an older male
2. The hotel guests don't leave the room together, but as the evening progresses, different people come and go. The noise from the room is continuing into the early hours. At 3am, the 2 teenage girls leave. They look drunk and one is crying. The other girl says her friend is 'tired and emotional' and giggles.

[ASK] Is it, or isn't it?

[Indicators include, discuss]

- a. Complaints of noise from the room
 - b. People coming and going
 - c. A young person who appears incoherent and uncomfortable
3. The next day the hotel domestic staff comment on the amount of empty vodka bottles and cannabis roaches. There are also teaspoons lying around and pieces of tinfoil in the bins with the wedding gift wrapping paper. A number of used condoms are found in the bathroom.

[ASK] Is it, or isn't it?

[Indicators include, discuss]

- a. Alcohol and drug paraphernalia in the room
 - b. Signs of sexual activity in the room
4. The following weekend you receive another booking for one night under similar circumstances. The man seems familiar.

[ASK] Is it, or isn't it?

[Indicators include, discuss]

- a. An adult checking who is a frequent user of the hotel with different people

Activity: Is it, or isn't it?

Case Study

1. You have received a last-minute booking for one night. The man booking the room says that they are guests at a wedding and need the room to change and stay the night. He is keen to pay by cash.

Mid-evening, 3 men of various ages, between 20 and 50, and 2 teenage girls, arrive at the hotel to take up the booking. They have a number of packages with them wrapped in wedding gift paper. As the evening progresses, other friends of the guests seem to come and go. There is a lot of noise – music, laughing coming from the room and people seem to be drunk. There is a 'do not disturb' notice on the door.

Is it, or isn't it?

2. The hotel guests don't leave the room together, but as the evening progresses, different people come and go. The noise from the room is continuing into the early hours. At 3am, the 2 teenage girls leave. They look drunk and one is crying. The other girl says her friend is 'tired and emotional' and giggles.

Is it, or isn't it?

3. The next day the hotel domestic staff comment on the amount of empty vodka bottles and cannabis roaches. There are also teaspoons lying around and pieces of tinfoil in the bins with the wedding gift wrapping paper. A number of used condoms are found in the bathroom.

Is it, or isn't it?

4. The following weekend you receive another booking for one night under similar circumstances. The man seems familiar.

Is it, or isn't it?